is sponsored by:

W. K. Kellogg
Biological Station
MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY

Location

3700 E. Gull Lake Drive
Hickory Corners
Michigan

The MSU W. K. Kellogg Biological Station and Conference Center are located northeast of Kalamazoo and northwest of Battle Creek, on the east side of Gull Lake, near Richland, Michigan.

This site includes the MSU W.K. Kellogg Biological Station Academic Building, which houses labs for scientific studies, the W.K. Kellogg Manor House, the summer home of W.K. Kellogg, and the Conference Center, which contains the main dining room, dorms, and cottages.

We will meet in the Biological Station auditorium and lunches will be available in the Conference Center main dining room. A large nearby parking area accommodates all buildings.

Suggested Overnight Accommodations

On-site Accommodations

MSU W.K. Kellogg Conference Center

Dorm-style small furnished suites are available on site for $95/person for one occupant, and $80/person for two occupants per night. Each suite includes a bedroom with twin beds, full bath, kitchenette, and living area. The suites do not include telephone or television.

Also available on-site are two fully furnished group cottages. The Caretaker Cottage is a 3-bedroom with a Queen, a Twin, and two Twins for $215/cottage/night. The Lakeside Cottage has four Queen bedrooms for $300/cottage/night. All amenities are included.

Exam

An optional exam will be conducted by remote computer submission. The test will be emailed to participants on April 9 and completed submission is due no later than midnight April 15, 2025.

There will be 40 questions on material covered in classroom, not to include field trip. Optional test may be completed with open book/notes and submitted online.

All National Garden Clubs (NGC) members who successfully complete all four courses with test results at 70% or higher will qualify for title of National Garden Clubs (NGC) “Environmental Consultant.”

Nonmembers may complete the courses and the tests, join an MGC garden club within a year from the last course, and become an NGC “Environmental Consultant.”

All MGC Environmental Consultants also automatically become a member of the MGC Michigan Consultants Council at no cost.

There is also an option of continuing education to renew an NGC “Environmental Consultant” title every five years.
